

Brighten a Senior's Summer Through Connection and Care

July is the perfect time to make a meaningful impact. With students out of school and families enjoying summer break, it's an ideal season to come together across generations and support those who need us most.

At Community Partners in Caring, our mission is to provide volunteer support services that help seniors and adults living with disabilities remain independent, connected, and cared for. Many of the individuals we serve face isolation and limited access to essential services, especially during the long summer months.

This summer, we invite you to give back by giving your time. Whether it's a friendly visit, a ride to a medical appointment, or helping with groceries, every act of kindness helps someone stay independent and feel seen. Let's make July a month of connection, compassion, and community. Volunteer today—and help brighten a senior's summer.

A Ride, A Connection, A Moment of Hope

Sheila and Michael, ages 75 and 76, live in Goleta and became clients of Community Partners in Caring in June 2024. When Sheila first reached out, she was in a difficult place—struggling with basic needs like food, bills, and other challenges beyond the scope of our direct services.

While we couldn't assist directly, we connected her with the resources she needed.

A year later, Sheila and Michael officially joined our program. On June 24, 2025, they received their very first ride through CPC. The day before, volunteer Camille L. had driven them to a medical appointment at UCLA Health Montecito Specialty Care.

What makes this ride so meaningful is the connection shared between those giving and those receiving. Camille, who is currently navigating her own challenges after recently losing her job, found purpose and strength through volunteering. In her moment of uncertainty, she brought comfort and relief to others in need.

These quiet moments of compassion are at the heart of what we do—reminding us that even during hard times, we can lift each other up.

Hilda's Corner: Savoring Summer Moments

We're in the heart of summer—and before long, Labor Day will be around the corner, leaving us wondering, "Where did the time go?"

Let's make the most of these sunny days while they're here. Head out to a local festival (¡Viva la Fiesta!), visit one of our beautiful beaches, or take a stroll through a nearby park. Even better—invite one of your clients along. A simple outing or a drive through nature can mean the world to someone who doesn't have easy access to these local treasures.

Sometimes, just sitting outside and taking in the fresh air is enough to lift our spirits and shift our outlook.

Enjoy every moment, my friends—and let's make this summer one to remember.
